IF WE LISTEN

VERY CLOSELY . . .

We may find things we've been missing.
There are voices we've never heard.

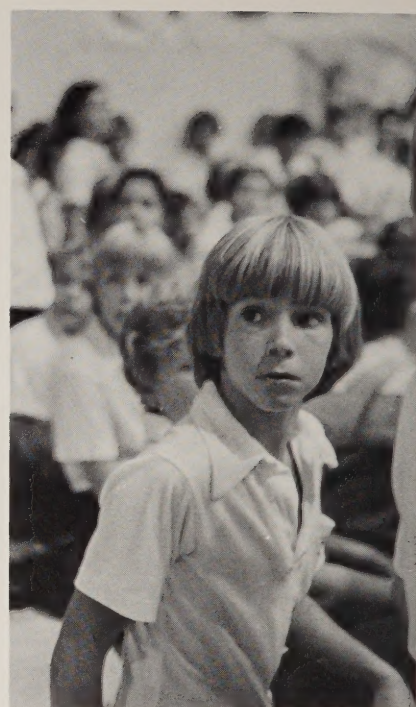

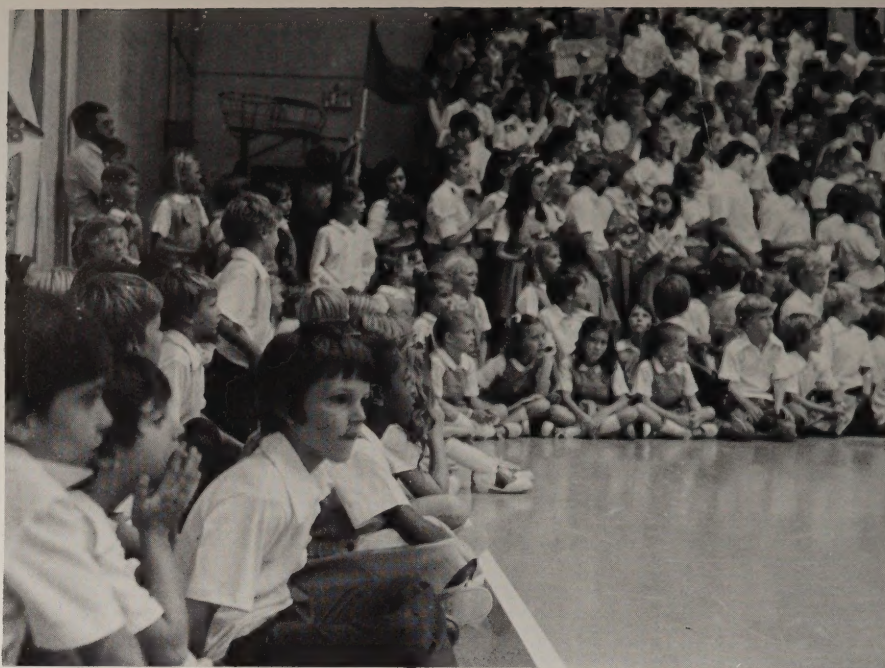

A voice is a means of expression.
It doesn't necessarily have to be audible, just understandable.

That's why groups of people, an entire school, can have a voice. When we think of the school's voice, it is a symbol. It stands for what all the individual students are saying. And this means our attitudes and activities, as well.

There are at least as many voices as faces.
Basically, we're all
trying to say the same thing.

The key lies in listening. There is an art to listening that few achieve. It's sad, because when we learn to listen, maybe we can learn to understand.

Sometimes what we do speaks louder
than what we
say. Are you listening?

From the start of school days, we do a lot of listening. We listen to learn and learn to listen.

The voice of school is always there, but how much we listen depends on each individual. The voice keeps telling us to think and respond with the reason we've developed by listening.

Our school outfits all say "uniform". Maybe our other clothes say who we are — or wish we were; but without us inside, they're nothing.

A facial expression is as much a voice as any words we might choose — sometimes even more articulate.

Sometimes we lift our voices

in song -

Sometimes it is good to stop and listen to the voice of nature.

Home of the Saints

We Have Ideas, But We're Not Sure.

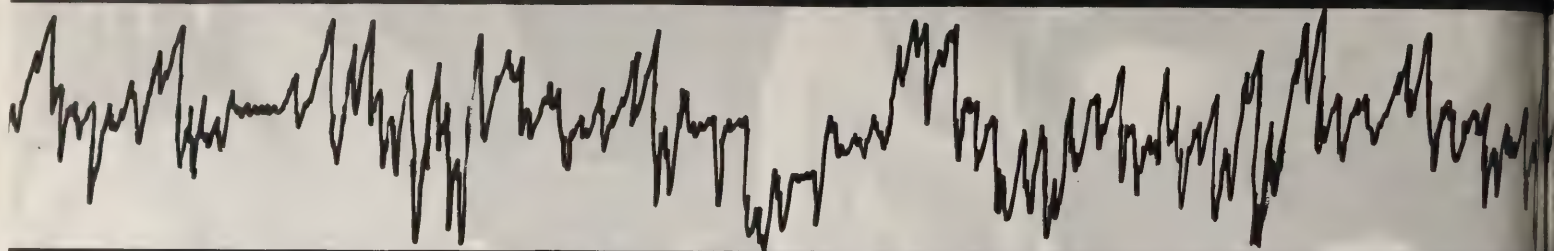

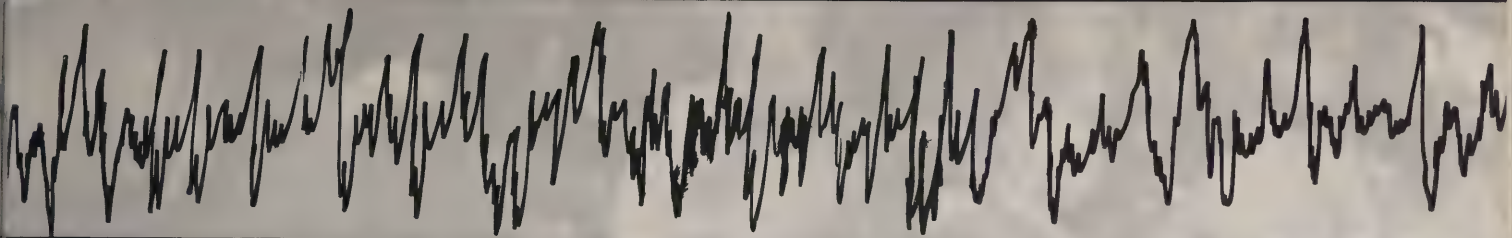

We've Heard What You Had To Say . . .
The Decade Is New;
It's Time To Go.
Goodbye.

Class of 1981, your Senior Year is upon you.
Take time to stop and smell the flowers
and listen to the voices.

* Faculty and Administration

Educators by profession, they direct the academic, financial, social, and political inclinations of the school. As the voice of authority, the faculty and administration are an essential part of the voice of St. Paul's.

Being the voice of authority is strange — the responsibility has to be accepted — and the blame. It's also nice to be given the credit when we finally realize they deserve it. Inspiring another voice to think and respond with reason is one of the greatest services to mankind. To help someone understand without indoctrinating or suppressing their individual voice is really reaching.

Student Body

Students are children with a million voices and views that change often. Everything we hear influences us. Because of the amount of time spent in school, the institution is a very strong influence on the development of the voice of the student's future. Each student is important. Each individual has the free will to choose what he wants to hear, but often people don't listen long enough to hear the whole story.

The crowd is always louder than an individual voice. On the other hand, there are many voices who never need an amplifier. Some speak without really caring if they are heard; and many long desperately for someone to listen, though no one ever seems to. Maybe the important thing is knowing what you want to say. That makes it a lot easier to verbalize.

Let's make the first of a little collection with the children
and the first of the year

My dear friends,
I am writing you this
letter to tell you that
I am very well and
hope you are the same.
I am very glad to hear
from you and hope you
are all well and happy.
I am very glad to hear
from you and hope you
are all well and happy.

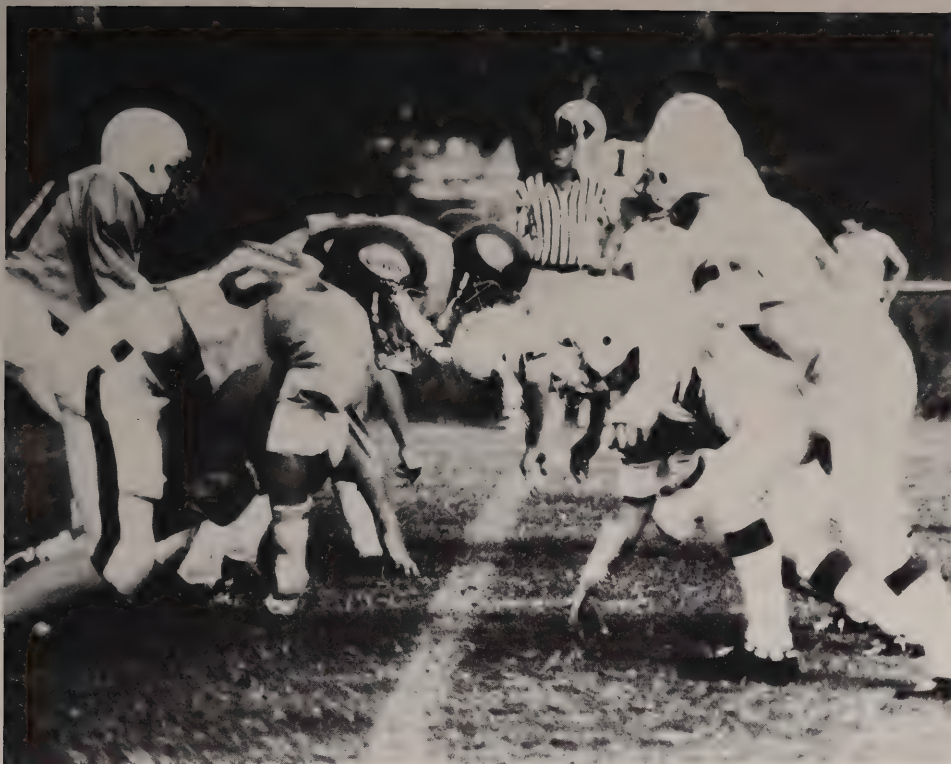

Calendar

Yearbooks are history books. They try to cover a big portion of events and tell the story of a given school year. This one is to remind you what the voice of St. Paul's sounded like in 1979-80.

As time goes by, people tend to forget a lot of things they say and do. But history repeats itself and the events of today may have a lot to do with tomorrow. Things that seemed stupid or embarrassing will probably be funny ten years from now. Maybe there are things we regret; but we can't change the past. Maybe we can learn from it. Here, briefly, is what happened.

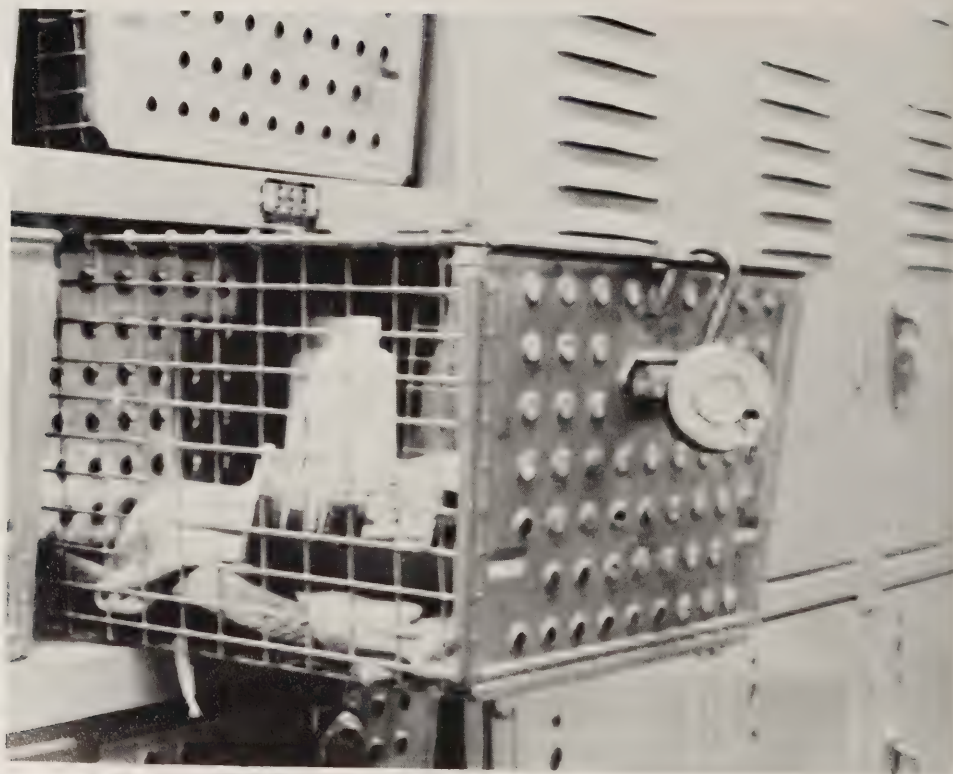

Summer doesn't last forever. Just about the time you have really begun to enjoy it, there's a letter from the school explaining the date and time you are to report for opening day chapel. Oh well, before long you're too engrossed with new teachers, homework, and football to remember ever having slept late, anyway.

... And then came Frederic. On the morning of September 13, it seemed as if the screaming, two hundred mile an hour winds of the night before had moved us into a new world. We missed eight days of school and an average of two weeks without electricity or running water. The new gymnasium lost its roof, sides, and of course, its floor. Months passed before all the debris could be removed. And the trees ...

As October came around, the school year had become routine. This year, though, an innovation was added; everyone had a common period assignment. It was a study hall for some, a longer day for others, and an opportunity for extra activities for most. Students had a chance to take courses from note taking to chorus.

The month ended with a special event: the lower school Halloween parade.

Homecoming got everyone involved: a pep rally, a picnic, a brand new football field, and an overwhelming defeat for Our Lady Of Victory.

The day's excitement began to wear down, and some "real old friends" met in the library for the eighth annual alumni reception. That night there was a dance and probably a few parties. Most everyone at St. Paul's had a pleasant day ...

... But on November 4, 1979, 50 American diplomats were seized by angry Iranian students. There are endless arguments over who is at fault and how to resolve the crisis; but on May 20, 1980 two hundred days later, not much has changed except eight American soldiers died and the Secretary of State resigned as a result of an ill-fated rescue attempt. The hostages are now scattered into a number of secret places, and the fear exists that more people will die before it is over. Here's to world peace and only having to worry about tomorrow's homework.

The varsity football team participated in the Jaycee Bowl at Long Beach, Mississippi, the first time a St. Paul's team had gone to a bowl game; and we walked away with the trophy. It was the start of a new tradition to accompany an old; powder-puff football was reinstated with the Turkey Bowl. The senior-sophomore girls beat the junior-freshmen girls 8-0.

December was unusually warm. We had a person on our campus to remind us that not all the "boat people" of the Far East were lucky enough to make it to safety. The fall sports awards were given; and the hurricane clean up was still going on. It was a common concurrence suddenly to hear and feel a damaged tree being cut while you sat in class. This, however, wasn't as upsetting as semester exams. Remember those things you had to suffer through before Christmas vacation?

When the new educational building was at last complete, all the little people in the lower school packed up their belongings and moved. And, to add to our culture, a harpsichordist was kind enough to give a recital.

This was an unusual year for guests at St. Paul's. Shortly before President Carter's announcement of a summer Olympic boycott, we were visited by Richard Overbey, the torch bearer from Alabama for the Winter games. He spoke of what a rare and rewarding experience the Olympic Games are for participants.

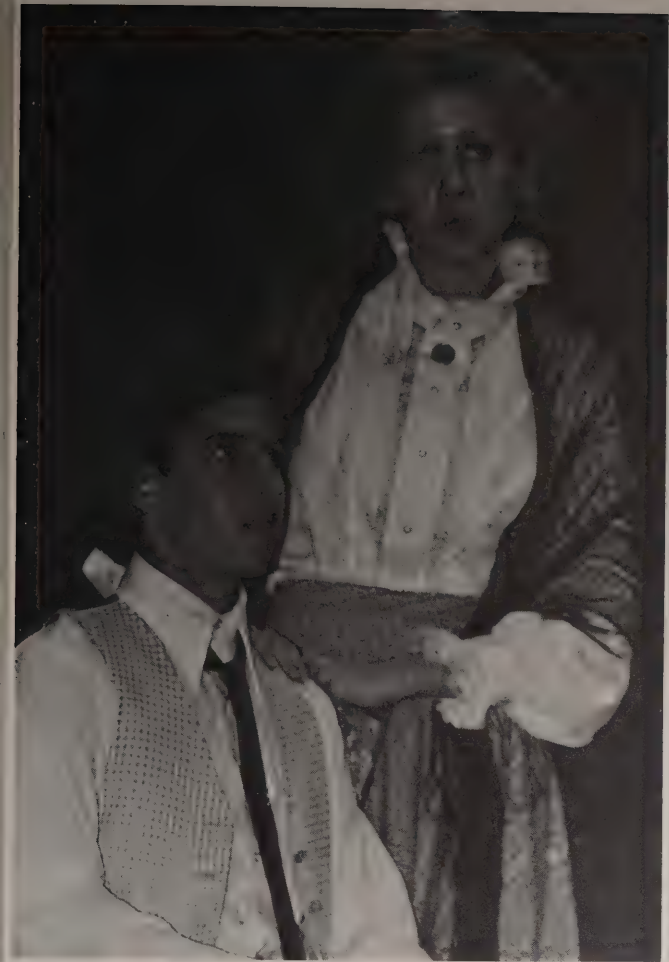

Even Mobile's Monsoon Season couldn't bring down Spring cheer. It did, however, have us wondering if it was going to bring down the goalpost behind Tara. The rainfall is approaching a record, with over eleven inches in 24 hours. That makes it hard to get to class, even on Spring Hill.

In March the graduating class hosted the "Senior Sing", the first such event at St. Paul's; and the entire high school, the faculty, and the administration got in the act.

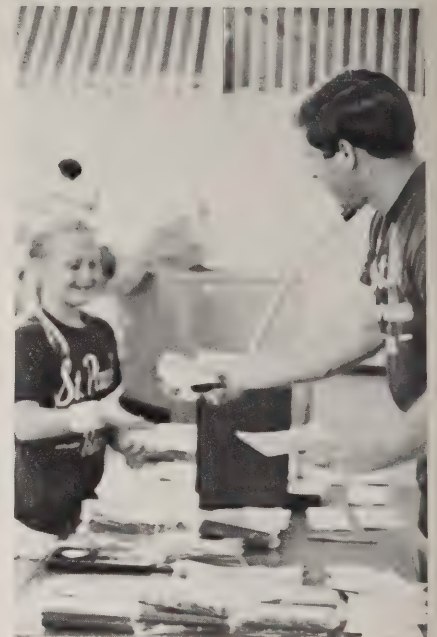

Another first, OUR TOWN, was a serious drama including a cast from all four high school classes. Brian Lockhart, among others, was outstanding. Patricia Marsh of the Fine Arts Department directed.

The Parent-Student Run was a big success after being rained out like almost everything this spring. When caps and gowns arrived, we suddenly realized the end of our high school days was very near.

We survived Baccalaureate Service when a terrible thunderstorm struck at the hour of the service with torrential rains; but the lights came back on in time for Dr. Vernon Hunter's address.

By graduation night May 30, there were at least 86 people who learned something new about themselves. David Keeler was winner of the William S. Mann Award as most representative St. Paulian; and between the Rev. Dr. Thomas H. Carson, Jr. Debbie and Laura, a few attitudes were changed. We didn't even throw our hats!

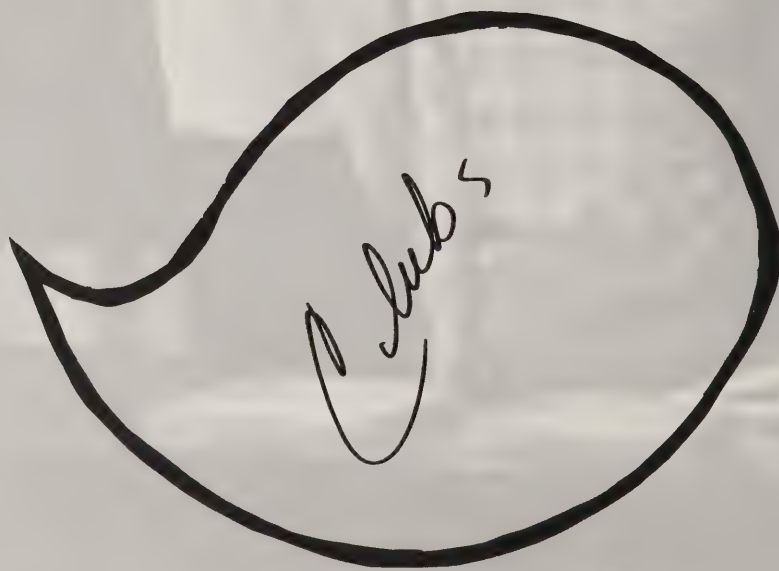

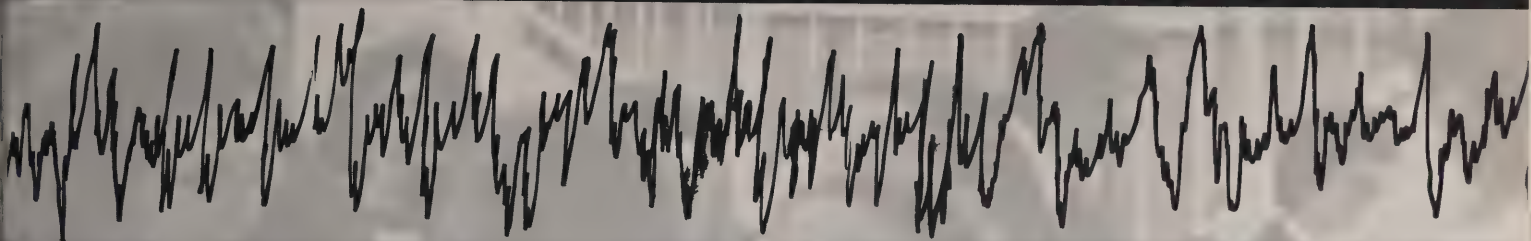

And with commencement, it's all over, just the memory of some past voices.

But is it really finished? This year's juniors will do the same thing next year. And in four years, many of us will graduate again. It's just a big circle, the same old voice that repeats itself a million different ways.

Handwritten scribbles or a continuous line drawing across the top section of the page.

A club is a voice representing many people. Members make a statement when joining because it means associating with a group and a common idea. It gives students something to do. Every club seems to have voices telling us to sell tickets, bring food for a bake sale, or attend a meeting.

Clubs offer the opportunity to learn something. Some people seem to collect clubs for their records; but clubs serve a useful purpose in enabling us to hear how our voice mixes with the other voices and opinions of the crowd. A club can be as helpful as one lets it be. It's easy to get lost in the mass, but there is always a chance to contribute. And the nice thing about it is if one club doesn't suit one's voice, a student can always change clubs.

High School Bowl

Regional Champions

The High School Bowl is a scholastic competition activity involving various teams from the Gulf Coast area. The four leading members of the St. Paul's team compete in locally televised matches through the cooperation of local television stations. This season makes the seventh year that a St. Paul's team has participated in the High School Bowl, whose trophy is the choice of two hundred dollars per member toward the college of his choice, or a full scholarship to the University of South Alabama. Three of the four "camera team" members are National Merit Scholarship Finalists also, which may explain their victory over one opponent 185 points to 90.

Participating in athletics is expressing opinions and emotions physically instead of verbally. That's why sports are an important part of the voice of the school. The spectators don't sit passively either.

The voice of athletics is shouting because it continues to grow. We have more teams and a new athletic field and a winning tradition in city, district, and state competition with both boys and girls.

Sports are very important to some people, as a voice of both expression and communication. It can be easier than trying to express ideas on paper, and besides, it's a lot more fun!

If I die tomorrow, I will probably die without having accomplished a great deal.

But that's ok, because I've learned something. You never know how much you miss until you look.

After all, the reward comes not in the destination, but in the journey. Thanks to everyone who helped me.

Angie Moore, Editor
